

As Marshall Arrived In London

Famed Mandalay Laid Waste As Japanese Bombers Rain Death And Horror From Air

Hamilton and Wooster Missionaries In Thick of Fire and Bomb Blasts; Devastate Homes, Hospitals and Religious Sanctuaries

EDITOR'S NOTE: The first part of the following dispatch from Daniel De Luce, Associated Press correspondent in Burma, has not been received. His gripping, eye-witness account, however, indicates that a great area, perhaps most of the storied city of Mandalay has been laid waste by Japanese bombers with unchallenged control of the skies.

(De Luce's story presumably refers to an attack April 3 which the British have said caused no military damage.)

By DANIEL DELUCE.

ALLIED ARMY HEADQUARTERS IN BURMA—(Delayed.)—The tone of enemy planes almost overhead was the only warning that Mandalay's quarter million inhabitants received of impending danger. Bombs exploded with ear-splitting thunder before more than a few persons could dive into narrow slit trenches which provide inadequate shelter from air attack.

Bomb fragments rained on the quid, teeming Indian and coolie camps on the north side of the railway yards. Two corners of big brick civil hospital and buildings near the station were blasted to dusty rubble.

A line of bungalows behind the hospital was smashed to bits. The roof of the Princess of Wales hospital in the same street was blown in.

Planes Come In Waves One wave of bombers finished their work and as fires mushroomed scores of wrecked buildings, a second wave came over. There was no opposition.

The hot breeze that usually fans away the flames through block after block of the dense wooden mementos of Chinatown and into rim-fringed Buddhist monasteries. The fire spread eastward into a street of elegant two-story bungalows owned by rich Burmans.

Leaves fled from the Wesleyan and Catholic asylums. Blazes sprang up around the Methodist and Baptist churches and the Catholic cathedral. All were soon smothered in leaping flames which left only the walls standing.

BUILDING HALTED BY NEW WAR EDICT

Suspends All Construction Except For The War Effort

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, April 9.—A drastic government order blocking virtually all new construction work, private and public, except for the war effort, went into effect today.

The War Production board's order, issued yesterday, prohibited any residential construction other than maintenance and repair work if the cost was $500 or more, forbade any new agricultural construction of $1,000 or more, and specified that no other types of construction—commercial, industrial, recreational, institutional, highway or utilities, whether publicly or privately financed—could be started if the cost was more than $5,000.

The only exceptions were in cases where specific government permission might be granted.

Further, said WPA, projects now under construction are being examined individually, and may be stopped "if the scarce materials to be used in them can be put to more effective use in the war program."

The order did not change existing regulations permitting construction of residences, costing up to $6,000, in defense housing areas designated by the government.

The board said the purpose of the order was to allocate steel, copper, iron and other scarce materials away from unnecessary construction and into fighting material and needed defense housing.

May Draft Old Gun

COLUMBUS, April 9.—A 150-millimeter naval cannon, captured from the Germans in the first World war and now decorating the state-house yard, may be turned against the enemy. Gov. John W. Bicker said the state was trying to estimate the gun's ownership and that it might be turned over to the federal government for rebuilding into a modern weapon.

Navy Reporters Predict Big Battle Impending In Indian Waters

(By Associated Press)

LONDON, April 9.—Two British 8-inch-gun cruisers, the 10,000-ton Cornwall and the 9,975-ton Dorsetshire whose torpedoes finished off the German battleship Bismarck little less than a year ago, have been sunk by Japanese bombers ranging the Bay of Bengal and battering at thin-stretched British naval communications to India, the admiralty announced today.

The shock of the loss of the two powerful ships rubbed the salt off the admiralty's announcement two hours earlier that a British submarine had sent a 10,000-ton Italian cruiser to the bottom of the central Mediterranean.

Blow To British Strength

The sinking of the Cornwall and Dorsetshire was a blow to the British naval strength immediately available to cope with Japanese aircraft carriers and warships reported increasing their activities astride the sea lanes to Calcutta in the bay between the bombed coast of India and invaded Burma.

Announcement of the sinkings came as London naval reporters predicted that "the biggest naval battle in all history seems about to blaze up in the Bay of Bengal between the Japanese and British fleets." (In this connection it was recalled that Axis reports last week declared powerful British naval units had been sighted speeding around the Cape of Good Hope enroute to the Indian ocean and the Bay of Bengal.)

Japanese broadcasts quoted imperial headquarters claims that in addition to the cruisers, Japanese forces sank 21 Allied merchantmen in the Bay of Bengal up to last Tuesday, and badly damaged 23 other ships.

Landing Reported

Hear, too, but without any other confirmation, was a Berlin broadcast quoting dispatches purportedly from Tokyo that Japanese expeditionary forces supported by cruisers and destroyers landed last Sunday on the Burma west coast and were within 30 miles of the Bengal border of India.

That would place them between the border and the big Burma port of Akyab.

Earlier roundabout reports that the Japanese had forced their way ashore at Akyab have been denied by the British headquarters at New Delhi.

The admiralty's announcement did not say when the Dorsetshire and Cornwall were sunk.

TRAINING CLASS WILL HAVE DINNER

Members of the Red Cross first aid instructors' training class will mark their concluding lesson Friday night with a 6 o'clock dinner in the Memorial building.

Physicians serving as teachers of the various first aid classes will be guests.

Afterwards, T. C. McDaniels, field representative of the American Red Cross, who has been conducting the instructors' classes here this week, will show motion pictures of first aid work.

Persons completing the instructors' course will be recommended to national Red Cross headquarters for certificates qualifying them as instructors. Other individuals associated with first aid study in Salem may attend the program which is to follow the dinner.

FIVE DIRECT HITS SANK PEARY FEB. 19

28-Year-Old Water Tender, Recovering From Burns, Tells Story of Attack

By C. YATES McDANIEL (By Associated Press)

MELBOURNE, April 9.—Five direct bomb hits by raiding Japanese planes sank the U. S. Destroyer Peary at Darwin Feb. 19 soon after she had arrived at that friendly harbor from the embattled Philippines, one of the 53 survivors said today.

He is Lawrence T. Farley of West Virginia, a 28-year-old water tender who is recovering from bad burns received in the warship's last fight.

Farley said the Peary suffered some casualties at Cavite in the first Japanese attack on that Manila bay naval base, but "hit back hard and sustained little damage."

From the Philippines, Farley said, the Peary headed for Australia and entered Darwin's harbor just before the Japanese launched a fierce attack with dive-bombers and zero fighters.

"Hell was soon a'popping," he said. "Within a few minutes we received five direct hits."

One bomb struck the stern, another the after engine room hatch and a third the galley passage.

"The blast from one bomb burned me badly and affected my eyes," Farley related, "but with a companion I made my way on deck and plunged overboard. Later a lifeboat from an Australian ship picked us up."

(The U. S. navy announced the sinking of the Peary, along with loss of the aircraft tender Langley and the naval tanker Pecos April 3.)

New Pilot Training Program To Utilize U. S. High Schools

Plan Contemplates Aeronautics Course Where 15 or More Prospective Cadets Are Enrolled

WASHINGTON, April 9.—The nation's high schools soon will be geared to the elementary training of pilots to fly America's great air armada.

J. W. Studebaker, U. S. commissioner of education, disclosed today that the plan contemplates the teaching of aeronautics in all high schools where 15 or more prospective air cadets can be enrolled.

"It is expected," Studebaker said, "that recommendations for pre-pilot refresher courses in physics and mathematics soon will be sent to all school systems of the country—these recommendations to be followed soon thereafter by the publication of detailed suggestions emanating from the army and navy as to the course outlines and instructional materials."

The Office of Education and representatives of the army, navy and civilian aeronautics administration now are conferring to determine what the high schools can do immediately to speed the pilot training program, in view of the President's goal to produce 50,000 planes this year and 125,000 in 1943.

Studebaker outlined tentative plans agreed upon as follows:

1. For the present semester, mathematics and physics applicable to the work of pilots might be handled as extra subjects in the boys' schedules, or taught before and after regular school hours.
2. Intensive refresher and pre-pilot training courses might be given in the summer schools of the larger communities and boys from nearby communities permitted to attend, tuition-free.
3. Next September a full semester's work in aeronautics should be offered in every high school in which as many as 15 prospective physically qualified air cadets can be enrolled. Boys who have taken such courses will be enabled, upon their induction into air cadet training, to devote more time to flying. Fewer boys will be "washed out" in the ground school phases of their first three months' training period.

AXIS STEPS UP WAR ON MALTA

Attacks Coincide with Increased Activities In Libya Sector

(By Associated Press)

LONDON, April 9.—Axis efforts to knock out the British island of Malta with mass raids appeared today to have reached their peak coincident with the resumption of activity in Libya by the forces of German Field Marshal Erwin Rommel.

"The German-Italian raids on Malta, staunch bar to Axis plans for domination of the Mediterranean, have been on the increase for 16 days and nights, ever since the last British convoy eluded the Italian fleet and sailed into port on the island."

The city of Valletta and its suburbs were said to show acres of dust-strewn ruins.

Worst Raid of Year

The Germans subjected Malta to its worst raid of the year Tuesday and were back in mass formations again yesterday.

Well posted observers, scanning Malta communiques, said the Axis apparently was concentrating on the island's airports. They noted with concern official reports that defending fighter planes were badly outnumbered, and speculated whether this meant some landing fields in Malta already had been made unserviceable or whether the fighter plane maintenance had been hampered by the raids.

The Malta communique last night said RAF fighters destroyed or damaged 12 planes yesterday while anti-aircraft batteries destroyed or damaged eight.

Meanwhile, the British and the Axis were ready to hurl their big Middle East forces into the next

ROOSEVELT ENVOY TAKES ACTIVE PART

Johnson Characterized By Commentators As "Hero of the Hour"

(By Associated Press)

NEW DELHI, India, April 9.—A general understanding on the main issues between the All-India congress party and Sir Stafford Cripps is as good as reached, it was reported today.

As far as the Congress party, potent Hindi voice on whose approval the protracted and complex negotiations for post-war Indian dominion status hinge, it now appears that there will be no difficulty or delay in the establishment of a national government in India.

This development came after another day's proceedings began on a rising note of optimism with Pandit Jawaharlal Nehru, the Congress leader, conferring with Louis Johnson, President Roosevelt's personal emissary, and the congress working committee again in session at Birla house.

Hope Are Brighter

After a one-hour meeting with Nehru, Johnson saw Cripps. His lengthy meetings last night with members of the Congress party and the British envoy had brightened hopes of an eventual settlement.

The Congress working committee, it was believed, now may issue a statement on the final terms tomorrow or, at the latest, Saturday.

The All-India Muslim league working committee's resolution was expected also to be released about that time. The league is the dominant voice along the great Muslim minority in India.

As a result of reports circulated throughout the country that the British government and the Congress party had finally come to terms, President Roosevelt's personal minister to India, Louis Johnson, was characterized by commen-

COLUMBIANA BOARD REHIRS TEACHERS

COLUMBIANA, April 9.—Teachers in the Columbiana school, with one exception, have been rehired for next year by the board of education.

Miss Dorothy Darrow, mathematics and English instructor for several years, was not an applicant for next year.

The teachers re-employed are: Principal Edgar F. Miller, John C. Barton, Robert H. Walter, Alfred M. Beach, Robert W. Payne, Clair E. King and Misses Estella Esterly, Mildred Burton, Ruth Wilson, Elizabeth Funk, Mae Ashman, Willa Carpenter, Nellie Koch, Sparkle Lautzenheiser, Mildred Mowen, Jean Schurenberger, Belva Switzer, Alberta Windle, Carolyn Wilson and Betty Ann Zellers.

Ira Schurenberger, W. Park ave., has been engaged to take the annual school enumeration. He was the only applicant for the position.

Supt. C. B. Riddle announced that Dr. Louis Wright, president of the Baldwin-Wallace college, Berea, will be the speaker at the commencement exercises May 27.

SCRAP CAMPAIGN IS NEARING CLOSE

Collection of scrap metal in the rural "scrap for cash" campaign is being completed this week in most townships in Columbiana county, according to Floyd Lower, Lisbon, chairman of the county scrap committee. Work is under way in West, Middleton, St. Clair, Liverpool, Madison, Wayne, Center and Washington townships. The other townships in the county have already been completed. Several hundred tons of scrap will be collected by the time the campaign is completed, according to the members of the county committee.

Huge Japanese Army Envelopes East Flank of Defense; Corregidor Still Standing, According to Incomplete Reports

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, April 9.—Secretary of War Stimson indicated today that 36,853 gallant American and Filipino soldiers faced death or capture as the result of the apparent collapse of the stubborn defense of Bataan peninsula in the Philippines.

Secretary Stimson said that Lieutenant General Jonathan M. Wainwright yesterday had 36,853 effectives on Bataan when the Japanese succeeded in enveloping the east flank of the defense lines despite a heroic counter-attack attempt by physically exhausted troops.

A war department communique earlier had announced that Japanese successes indicated "the probability that the defense of Bataan had been overcome" and Stimson discussed the situation at his press conference.

President Roosevelt has authorized the Philippine commander to make any decision he deemed necessary in the light of events, Stimson said.

Stimson told reporters that latest reports from the Philippines indicated that Corregidor and the other fortifications guarding the entrance to Manila Bay still stood, but declined to make predictions as to how long they could hold out.

"This is only a temporary loss," Stimson said. "We shall not stop until we drive out the invaders from the islands."

Stimson said the figure of 36,853 effectives was in the report received yesterday from General Wainwright. He stressed that this figure included only the men fighting on Bataan at that time.

Excluded were American and Filipino troops guarding the defenses of Corregidor and the other islands, the wounded, nearly 23,000 civilian refugees, and some 6,000 Filipino laborers who were non-combatant.

Stimson disclosed that under the direction of Brigadier General Patrick J. Hurley, former secretary of war who is now minister to New Zealand urgent efforts were made beginning last January 11 to reinforce the besieged Philippine troops.

From a base in Australia several ship loads of supplies were sent to the Philippines, and part of these supplies reached Corregidor and Bataan.

"But for every ship that arrived, we lost nearly two ships," Stimson said.

Because of these supplies, the defenders were never short of ammunition, the secretary said, but had been short on rations.

Expects Isolated Resistance To Continue

Stimson said he saw no reason why resistance by isolated, relatively small forces should continue in northern Luzon, on the island of Mindanao and elsewhere where blows have been struck, aside from further defense of Corregidor.

The war department's early morning communique stating "the probability that the defenses on Bataan have been overcome" was the latest news the war department had received up to 10:30 a. m. Eastern War Time, today, Stimson said.

"Our troops, outnumbered and worn down by successive attacks by fresh troops, exhausted by insufficient rations and the disease prevalent in that peninsula, finally had their lines broken and enveloped by the enemy," the secretary said.

"We do not know the details of what has happened since that communique, but it is evident as stated therein that the defenses on Bataan have been overcome."

"A long and gallant defense has been worn down and overthrown. "We have nothing but praise and admiration for the commanders and the men who have conducted this epic chapter in American history."

Stimson emphasized also that both General Wainwright and General Douglas MacArthur his predecessor, had nothing but praise for the Filipino soldiers who had been fighting side by side with the Americans.

President Roosevelt's message to General Wainwright, he said, was sent yesterday. In the message, Stimson said the chief executive expressed his "full appreciation of the enormous difficulties confronting General Wainwright and told him he had nothing but praise for his method of conducting the defense and for his soldierly conduct throughout."

Stimson said the president told Wainwright that "any decision he reached now would be in the interests of the country and the splendid troops he commanded."

Lack of Air Support Made Outcome Certain

The defenders had no air support of any substantial size recently, Stimson said, adding "that is what made the outcome practically a foregone conclusion."

The secretary said the efforts to aid the defenders from outside were undertaken as soon as General MacArthur had taken his position on the peninsula in early January, when "we began to take steps to make his stay as long as possible."

The American army officers who set up the base in Australia had as part of their duty the assignment to attempt to break the Japanese blockade.

"To make sure that special efforts were put into the task, former Secretary of War Hurley was put in charge and authorized and directed to make every effort possible," Stimson continued.

"Very large sums of money were placed to his credit and also to the credit of General MacArthur. It was proposed that MacArthur put in the Philippines what he could."

"General Hurley was very successful. He secured several ship loads of supplies which got into the Philippines and part of which reached Corregidor and Bataan."

CRISIS PAST DUE

Now it is the government, itself, that seems to be preparing the public for bad news from the Philippines. A crisis in the fighting there is past due. The Japanese plainly are trying to wind up their invasion in the near future. Heavier pressure is admitted in official communiques.

The effect of defeat on Bataan and perhaps later at Corregidor is conjectural. During most of the time since the United States was caught off guard at Pearl Harbor, the only heartening news has come from the successful last stand mapped out by Gen. MacArthur. A reverse now would be a severe disappointment.

So many Japanese thrusts have been turned back that Americans have been encouraged to feel more hopeful than the facts justified. The facts have never changed; the Japanese are superior in man power, sea power, air power and, lately, even in artillery power, according to dispatches.

Ultimately, Japanese superiority must prevail, unless relief is obtained. What Gen. MacArthur meant when he said, after his escape to Australia, "A primary purpose of this is the relief of the Philippines—I came through and I shall return," is not known. If he was talking directly to the point and not around it, which would have been pardonable under the circumstances, Gen. Wainwright's forces may get help. Meanwhile, official admissions that his forces are sustaining heavy casualties are preparing Americans at home for what ultimately may be their greatest shock of the war.

TWO-WAY ADAGE

Cutting the suit to fit the cloth, which seems to be a sound enough rule in peacetime, is reversed in wartime. The cloth is cut to fit the suit. In every part of the country, things are being done that would have been out of the question before the United States declared war.

Some of them could have been done before and would have been done, if wartime necessities could have been foreseen. That canal across Florida, for instance, which was criticized so severely, would be part of the answer to Germany's submarine blockade of coastal shipping. The canal idea is being urged now, on a modified scale, for barges. Similarly, with the St. Lawrence waterway, which would relieve railroad congestion in wartime, though in peacetime it threatened to compete with railroads too strenuously.

Roads have been built for wartime that were needed before but couldn't be justified by peacetime standards. Communities that have lacked hospital facilities for years are getting them now, as part of the war program. No expense is too large, no complication too great to be justifiable under an all-out war program. There is no tolerance for scrimping and saving, even though it never is plainer that without peacetime conservation the essential latitude for wartime spending could not be assured.

SO FAR SO UNBELIEVABLY GOOD

Old timers persistently warn that April is a month of weather surprises, but this April it seems out of the question for snow to fall and frost to return. For once in a lifetime, the forsythia seems destined to bloom against a background of green, instead of white.

While it is necessary to be prepared for an anticlimax in the form of a blizzard, there is a minimum of tension. The blizzards that have struck elsewhere seem remote, the way the war seemed until submarines appeared off the Atlantic coast. They can't happen here—and if they do, the state highway department still hasn't taken down all the drift fences. The fruit crop will be ruined, as it always is until time to harvest it, coal bins will be empty and there will be a great commotion, but in the aggregate it won't amount to much. In fact, there's an old saying that it snows three times after the forsythia blooms.

CHANGE FOR THE BETTER

Decision to change the name of Defense Savings Bonds and Stamps to War Savings Bonds and Stamps comes four months after the transformation in popular psychology from an attitude of defense to offense.

Pearl Harbor is being remembered as a horrible example of what can happen when the enemy is permitted to take the initiative. In a hundred ways since Dec. 7 and with increasing speed the last few weeks the people of the United States have been breaking away from the notion that national defense is a sound and sufficient policy. In an era of great offensives defense is not enough.

The United States has heard much of the dynamic drive of the totalitarian governments—a drive more often artificial than genuine. To the authoritarian propagandists it offers its own dynamism for what it is worth. It is tired of plans that call for sitting tight and holding fast to that which is good. It is eager to get up on its hind legs to go get its antagonists wherever they can be reached. It is in a mood to buy bonds for waging war aggressively, not defensively.

For Friday, April 10.

PROGRESS, prosperity, promotion and preferment are among the fortuitous conditions found in this day's horoscope. There is every possibility of accomplishment of high goals and ambitions and of many cherished plans in the realm of heart's desire, albeit a trivial emotional disturbance is noted. It should be a time to push for favors and the appropriation of those in high places.

Those whose birthday it is may be assured of a year in which luck as well as pluck are to win their fair share of good fortune, high achievement, with rewards for enterprise, splendid talents and efficiency, perhaps in promotion or preferment from those in power.

A child born on this day should be exceptionally talented, with much energy and enterprise for attaining high place.

WHEAT FARMERS' DREAM

KANSAS CITY, April 9.—The wheat farmers' old dream of a bumper crop with quotations well above a dollar a bushel seems about to materialize.

But that rosy dream of a few years ago has turned into just another nightmare.

There's no place in the wheat belt to store the crop. A record carryover of 630,000,000 bushels is taking up all the elevator space, and the railroads, already working overtime to meet wartime demands, can offer little encouragement to grain shippers seeking elevator accommodations elsewhere.

Grahammen from Nebraska, Kansas, Missouri and Oklahoma, meeting in Kansas City yesterday, could offer only one solution—the grower, himself, is just going to have to provide his own storage space for the largest crop in 10 years, a crop expected to equal the amount of the carryover.

Frank A. Theis, member of the joint terminal committee of the Kansas City grain market, said that only about 8,000,000 of the listed 53,000,000 bushel elevator capacity of this key center was available. Similar conditions prevail elsewhere.

Pointing out that more than two-thirds of the carryover—enough wheat to supply the country for a year—was under government control, Theis recommended that at least 15,000,000 bushels be moved to other storage.

His committee was prepared to support a recommendation that a permit system be set up to provide equal space for new wheat under loan as the government moved out its present stock, he added.

He estimated there were 100,000,000 bushels of storage available outside of the principal wheat growing area, but locating it, and moving the grain to it over the glutted railroads was another matter.

And that would still leave half a million bushels above the elevator capacity.

So it looks like the farmer must plan to handle his own wheat definitely.

MANY CAUSES FOR ABDOMEN MALADIES

Most Common of All of Them Is Appendicitis

By LOGAN CLEDENING, M. D.
THE ACUTE abdomen is a term employed by surgeons and means any sudden catastrophe which produces severe abdominal symptoms.

The acute abdomen, in terms of symptoms, means pain, discomfort, fever, prostration, shock and

Dr. Cledenning will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

vomiting. They may not all be present, but usually a combination of three or four of these will be present. It is highly important for the surgeon to make a diagnosis before shock and prostration interfere with treatment and that is why the condition should be known to the layman in every household.

The causes of acute abdomen are many. Probably the commonest is acute appendicitis. This may start out quite insidiously, but within 24 or 48 hours change from a mild pain in the abdomen to a severe condition of distention, vomiting and shock.

A second cause of the acute abdomen is intestinal obstruction. The commonest form of this is a strangulated hernia. It is astonishing how many people do not know that they have a hernia which may be dangerous. Of a series of patients who entered a hospital with a strangulated femoral hernia, 43 per cent, and their doctors, did not know that a hernia existed, and had no idea of the cause of the symptoms.

A third form of intestinal obstruction occurs around adhesions. In any patient who has had an abdominal operation and who suddenly has the symptoms of acute abdomen, this complication should be suspected.

Another which occurs in children is known as intussusception. This is a telescoping of the small bowel into the large bowel. A form of intestinal obstruction that occurs in old people is known as volvulus and is due to a twisting of the bowel on itself.

Acute abdomen may be caused by perforation of a part of the stomach or bowel in which an ulcer has eaten through. This occurs in ulcer of the stomach, typhoid fever, ulcerative colitis and other conditions.

Still another cause of acute abdomen is a twisting of one of the pelvic organs.

The most important thing that the layman should know about acute abdomen is not to try to treat it at home; especially not to try to treat it with cathartics. Somebody who has "a little bellyache" almost invariably thinks it will get better if he takes a cathartic. In every known condition which causes an acute abdomen, this simply makes it worse and tends to throw the patient into a dangerous shock.

The best thing to do is to apply heat until the doctor gets there. By all odds, if there is any possibility of getting a doctor, do so. A great many cases get well by themselves if they are not stirred up by a cathartic, so even if you can't get a doctor, don't get hysterical and don't give a cathartic. Put the patient to bed with heat on the abdomen in the form of a hot pack or a hot towel and remember that there is such a thing as the acute abdomen which begins with little symptoms such as a little pain and discomfort, but which can quickly grow into big ones.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

E. L.: "My daughter's feet get white as soon as she gets cold. She is healthy in every other way, 14 years old and is working. Could you advise me as to what I could do?"

Answer: These vasomotor disturbances are often due to emotional upsets. She should wear woolen stockings and avoid constrictions such as garters around the legs. The blood vessels of the feet can be exercised by alternately raising and lowering the feet 20 to 30 times at night before retiring.

J. E. G.: "Please advise me in your column what the seven-year itch is and what causes it?"

Answer: This question has come to me two or three times and I have looked in all the medical dictionaries and books on skin diseases and reader's handbooks, etc., that I can find, and have not been able to locate it. If anybody can help in this, we will be glad to furnish

Tired Kidneys Often Bring Sleepless Nights

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pen and energy, getting up at night, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

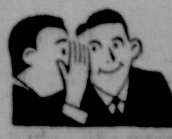

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

L. E. B.: "Should a person who has sinus trouble stop smoking?"
Answer: Smoking does no real harm to sinus trouble. The only problem is whether it causes discomfort or not. This is a matter of experience. In other words I would advise you to question yourself honestly to see whether smoking does you any harm and act in accordance.

What do I do?

—to keep my car from "running a fever?"

Scale and rust in your car's cooling system act like insulation around a steam pipe—keep the heat in instead of letting it out. And the hotter your engine runs, the more danger of serious damage. Keep engine temperature normal by having the cooling system thoroughly cleaned at least twice a year—now and in the fall—and add a rust inhibitor for summer driving. TAX IS PROPOSED IN WAR CONTRACTS

Profit Question to be Taken Up Later This Month By Committee

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, April 9.—A special tax on the income from military production contracts was proposed today by Chairman George D-Ga of the senate finance committee to supplement congressional efforts to limit war profits.

He termed such a special levy "a just and proper step." To include an increase in tax on non-military orders, he said, would be unfair.

A joint senate-house conference committee will take up the profit question later this month when it meets to consider amendments to a $19,212,000,000 military appropriation bill but George said it was his opinion that a practical curb on excessive earnings could be accomplished only through taxation.

Inclining to agree, Senator Rye (R-ND) said the conference committee, of which he is a member, was likely to be hampered by fear that too drastic curbs on profits would slow down war production.

"I, for one, am not going to agree to anything that will impede production," he said, "and there is some rather conclusive evidence that production officials believe a profit limitation would do just that."

These officials, including Donald M. Nelson, war production chief, will be called in when the conference committee seeks to compose senate and house differences.

The house voted a flat 6 per cent profit limitation on contracts let with funds provided in the $19,212,000,000 bill.

With unenthusiastic acquiescence of Nelson and others, the senate on the other hand voted to vest a discretionary control over profits in the hands of key war program officials, authorizing them to renegotiate any present or future contracts on which they suspected excessive profits were being made.

A—There are various collection campaigns. Under one by the Bureau of Industrial Conservation, the magazine Steel says more than 3,000,000 tons are expected to be obtained from automobile graveyards during the next 90 days.
Q—Which is losing by decreased steel production—our war effort or civilian goods?
A—The answer isn't entirely clear, but Haven says it would seem the shortage will be only in peace-time civilian commodities. We have been short of some war steel, such as plates and alloy steels, but new plate mill capacity was brought in last year and some of the strip mills—of which there are plenty—are being modified and equipped with finishing facilities to handle plates up to three-quarters of an inch. Light armor plates for tanks are being rolled on some of the older type sheet and jobbing mills, and steel castings are being substituted to a considerable extent for tank and armor plate.

ARRAIGNMENT SET FOR COMING MONDAY
LISBON, April 9. — Persons indicted by the grand jury in its report to Judge Joel H. Sharp in common pleas court late Tuesday afternoon will be arraigned Monday, Prosecutor Frank W. Springer announced today. All defendants, with the exception of possibly one, will appear in court at that time to enter pleas to charges in indictments.
The count against Lawrence Estill, Lisbon youth now serving a sentence in the Mansfield reformatory, may be nolleed, Prosecutor Springer indicated in a letter to Chairman W. D. Morris of the local draft board, if the youth is accepted for army duty. Estill was returned to the institution some time ago as a parole violator, and was indicted for breaking and entering by the grand jury earlier this week.

FAMED MANDALAY RAVAGED BY BOMBS

Waves of Japanese Planes Devastate Burma City, Unopposed

Inside the Mandalay fortress, the hospital and barracks in the south-east corner caught fire. Sweating Indian riflemen bore the wounded to safety on their backs.

Under a rain of embers, screaming, burning men, women and children flung themselves through the purple water hyacinths into the fortress' shallow moat.

Engineers, in fierce heat, planted dynamite charges and blew up buildings in an attempt to limit the holocaust before all Mandalay was destroyed.

Save Freight Cars

British army engineers and British and Indian crews saved hundreds of freight cars. Wounded men helped carry out the salvage job.

A British captain with a bomb splinter in his right arm filled my jeep with gasoline opposite a burning two-story Indian foodstore and told me of a detour which would let me deeper into the fire area.

"You can sling a stretcher across the jeep," he said. "There are people lying around in the streets in the middle of that bloody town."

I drove through an alley near the fire-cloaked civil telegraph headquarters and raced along the east side of the native bazaar which had not yet burned, although shops across the way were cracking and the jeep had to dodge hot sheets of tin roofing falling on the sticky asphalt road.

By a tangle of wires under a telephone pole I saw the bodies of two Indians. Their legs were burned to stumps.

A decapitated Burman woman lay sprawled by the drain in front of a native tea shop.

Two priests, protecting their shaven heads with flaps of their orange robes, stood by a garden wall staring mutely at the disaster.

Hospital Filled With Victims

Both floors of the American Baptist mission's little memorial hospital were filled with victims. More arrived in what seemed to be an unending procession of horror.

D. O. Smith, a missionary teacher from Long Beach, Calif., lifted from a stretcher an Indian boy who had just died.

Gordon S. Jury and his wife, elderly medical volunteers from Hamilton, O., knelt on their knees sponging blood from the wounded.

A young Burmese mother nursed her infant daughter as Fred Dickson, another missionary teacher from Wooster, O., distinguished a gash in the baby's hip.

The wounded driver of a Burma government defense ambulance, whose own wife and child were killed in the raid, followed me into the hospital yard.

"One little bit of warning would have saved hundreds of lives," he stormed. No real air raid shelters

... no planes to defend us ... we are left like cornered rats at the mercy of these Japanese. A handful of volunteers are about the only people standing between the wounded and death. Why is it that the poor and the helpless are the ones killed in this war?"

DEATHS

GEORGE W. BUSH

COLUMBIANA, April 9.—George W. Bush, retired shoe merchant, died Tuesday, after a three-month illness, in a hospital in Minneapolis, where he had lived for the last 60 years.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. John Bush, he was born at Eureka, Beaver township, Mahoning county, July 4, 1858. He retired in 1934. Mr. Bush, the last member of his family, was a member of the Lutheran church in Minneapolis.

Surviving are several nieces and nephews in and near Columbianna and North Lima.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. Saturday at the Fry funeral home in charge of Rev. George A. Funk. Burial will be in the Columbianna cemetery. Friends may call at the funeral home from 7 to 9 p. m. Friday.

WILLIAM DOMHOFF FUNERAL

Several Salem friends attended the funeral of William Domhoff at the home in Zelenople, Pa., Wednesday. Burial was in the Zelenople cemetery.

The group from Salem included Mrs. John Ketterer, Mrs. W. J. Seeman, Mrs. J. H. Groner and Mrs. A. H. Schropp.

Mrs. Domhoff, a former Salem resident, was a charter member of Trinity Lutheran church here.

Production Resumed

MOUNT VERNON, April 9.—Shellmar Products Co., makers of airplane engine covers and other military articles, resumed production today after a two-day shutdown because of a wage dispute. The plant employs 500 workers.

During a four-hour conference with federal labor conciliators yesterday, General Manager Paul M. Giffalen and representatives of the CIO United Toy, Novelty and Paper Makers union agreed to arbitrate the dispute with results retroactive to March 6.

No details of present pay scales or wages sought were announced.

EXHAUSTED ARMY IN BATAAN YIELDS

Yank and Filipino Troops Face Either Death or Capture

But for every ship that arrived, we lost nearly two ships.

"I am glad to say the defenders were never short of ammunition, owing to these efforts. Up until the last word from them, they had plenty of small arms and artillery ammunition.

"But they had been on short rations since MacArthur put them into effect Jan. 11. This fact and the long strain were a very potent factor in wearing down our troops, making them unable to rebound to the counter attack as at first."

Stimson told questioners that no casualty totals were yet available.

He made it clear that Filipinos comprised the bulk of the peninsula defenders, the Americans being made up largely of the 31st infantry regiment, crews of two tank battalions and units of self-protection last summer and fall, plus air force ground crews and sailors and marines from the abandoned Cavite naval base.

The air force personnel numbered about 5,000 men at the start of the invasion, Stimson said. Of these, some 2,000 fought as infantrymen in the latter stages, after their planes had been put out of action or transferred to the Netherlands Indies and Australia as were a number of long range bombers.

American air losses were very heavy the first day of the invasion, the secretary remarked.

U. S. IS FACING NEW PROBLEM IN PORK

Smaller Packers caught Between Rising Prices and Ceilings

(By Associated Press)

CHICAGO, April 9.—Efforts to control wholesale pork prices while purchasing large quantities of pork for lend-lease export appeared today to have brought government agencies face-to-face with one of the knottiest problems yet to confront the anti-inflation program.

Aroused by what they termed an inequitable situation, representatives of small meat packers convening here have sent a delegation to Washington to see if some changes can be made in wholesale pork ceilings or in agricultural marketing administration buying policies.

Trade circles said smaller packers were caught between rising live hog prices, which are at 13 year peaks, and the frozen wholesale pork price structure. Some of the smaller packers even might be confronted with the possibility of closing their businesses.

The plight of the smaller packers, as they presented it at their meetings, is the result of the following aspects of the pork situation:

1. The Office of Price Administration has placed "temporary" ceilings over 90 per cent of all wholesale pork products. This was done to protect consumers from higher pork meat costs.

2. The Agricultural Marketing Administration is buying large quantities of pork for lend-lease shipment to allied nations, and these purchases may be made at 2 cents a pound the OPA's ceilings.

3. The AMA, however, buys only from federally inspected plants, and many small packers are state inspected. This means the federally inspected plants can sell about 40 per cent of their pork products at higher prices than those plants not federally inspected.

4. Federally inspected plants, therefore, have more leeway in buying hogs, smaller plants also must pay higher prices, but must sell all their output under wholesale ceilings.

Representatives of small packers contended these policies combined to favor larger companies.

OPA permitted the AMA to pay 2 cents a pound above wholesale ceilings for its pork, it was said, to compensate for selecting and preparing cuts for delivery under government specifications.

SUGAR DATES LISTED BY OHIO OFFICIAL

COLUMBUS, April 9.—State Defense Director Courtney Burton set April 28 and 29 as registration dates for retailers, wholesalers, industries and institutions seeking sugar rationing certificates.

He ordered county rationing coordinators to determine the number of such users of sugar who will be eligible to obtain certificates at Ohio's 1,123 high schools, where consumers will get ration cards May 4-7.

H. T. Beckman, staff rationing administrator, said the amount of sugar allotted the commercial and institutional crop would be determined by a mathematical formula established by the Office of Price Administration.

Those with sugar supplies in excess of a limit soon to be announced would not be granted certificates, he asserted, while organizations failing to register must wait two weeks before applying to rationing boards for sugar allotments.

The certificates will be good until June 30, when they must be renewed, Beckman declared. Persons giving false information are subject to a fine of $10,000 or 10 years' imprisonment, he added.

Canfield Soldier Hurt In Route 62 Accident

Sergeant Myron H. Coy of Canfield, stationed at Camp Wolters, Texas, suffered a severe forehead laceration at 11:15 a. m. today when the automobile in which he was riding struck the rear of a truck on Route 62, just east of Alliance.

Twenty-four stitches were required to close the wound at Salem City hospital, state highway patrolmen said.

Coy was riding with Sergeant John F. Boyd, 27, who was uninjured. The soldiers were returning to Texas after a visit with relatives in Canfield. Boyd hit the rear of the truck when he swung back to his side of the road to avoid an oncoming car.

The truck was in charge of James Lavinski of Cleveland.

tators as "the hero of the hour." Johnson, who arrived last week, took an increasingly prominent part in the negotiations and this evening's issue of the Nationalist newspaper, the Bombay Sentinel, described him as a "Super Cripps."

"Better Pay Price"

Throughout his talks with Cripps and Nationalist leaders, Johnson's attitude was reported to have been to this effect: "better to pay the price for Congress' cooperation than to risk the future."

The formula on the defense issue reportedly reached by Cripps, Johnson and Congress leaders was said to provide for a clear division of functions, with General Sir Archibald P. Wavell, now British commander for India, to be supreme commander for conduct of the war under a war cabinet while an Indian defense minister acting under the authority of the projected Indian national government would be war minister.

Cripps and Johnson were believed to be eager that Pandit Jawaharlal Nehru of the Congress party agree to be defense minister.

FARMERS TO VOTE ON SOIL PROGRAM

Farmers of Columbianna county will vote on the establishment of a soil conservation district in the county on Friday, April 24, according to a communication to County Agent Floyd Lower from John P. Cunningham, chairman of the Ohio Soil Conservation committee.

Only land owners outside of incorporated places are eligible to vote, according to Cunningham. A polling place for each township will be announced next week. Polls will be open from 12 to 4 p. m. and from 7:30 to 10 p. m. on the referendum day. The referendum was called by the state committee according to law after approval of petitions submitted by the county following the hearing held in Columbus March 26.

Sixty-five per cent of the landowners voting must ballot favorably in order to establish the district. If established the landowners will later elect a board of five supervisors consisting of farmers, who will direct the activities of the district. Under the Ohio law there are no compulsory features, and the district cannot affect any existing taxes or create new taxes. It does not increase taxes nor create jobs. No funds are provided by law, and the supervisors receive no compensation. The district is designed to assist farmers in working out their erosion control problems.

CINCINNATI BAGS 12 ENEMY ALIENS

CINCINNATI, April 9.—Twelve enemy aliens, six of them women, were held here today for preliminary hearing on charges of possessing short wave radios, arms, and other articles forbidden to them by presidential proclamation.

The hearing, before Assistant U. S. Attorney Frederic Johnson, is to determine if they are to be held for the alien enemy control board and possible internment for the duration, or to be permitted to return to their homes in Dayton, Yellow Springs and Springfield.

Raymond C. Suran, chief of the Cincinnati office of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, reported that the 12, nine Germans and three Italians, were arrested yesterday afternoon.

Suran listed the articles confiscated as 17 short wave radios, one oscillator capable of radio transmission, a dozen cameras, six rifles, shotguns, and pistols, and a quantity of ammunition. Numerous photographs of Adolf Hitler, a silver swastika plaque, and copies of Hitler's book, Mein Kampf, and other propaganda material also were seized.

Pedestrian Injured

Harry Mahon, 73, of R. D. 1, Darlington, Pa., suffered a sprained left shoulder and hip and a head laceration when he was struck by an automobile while walking along the State Line road just east of East Palestine, at 10:30 a. m. yesterday.

He was given treatment by an East Palestine doctor. Salem state highway patrolmen said Mahon was hit by a car driven by William Bratt, 22, of East Palestine, who at the time, as attempting to pass another machine.

The number of refugees in the western part of Free China is estimated by the Chinese government at 50 million.

Golfdom's Royal Family Opens Fire In Master's Tourney Today

HOGAN FAVORED AS 42 STARS TEE OFF IN AUGUSTA EVENT

Snarl of Motors Overhead Reminds Golfers That Tourney Is Last

By GAYLE TALBOT.
AUGUSTA, Ga., April 9.—Over one of the world's loveliest golf courses, the royal family of the game starts play today in the 72-hole Masters' tournament, with the snarl of military motors overhead to remind them that this probably is the last sentimental stop at Bobby Jones' course until after the war.

Even though they have been playing against each other all winter, the boys seemed not to realize that the big bust-up was at hand until they landed here. Now they do, and it has given them an added incentive to win the most coveted of the titles, excepting only the open. It was a tense, tightly-wound field of 42 that teed off today.

The Masters, though it was what might be called a "manufactured" tournament to begin with, has in the last eight years taken a remarkable hold on the players. One and all, they look forward each year to receive one of the big embossed invitations, and when none shows up they are crestfallen.

In Field With Jones
Partly, no doubt, it is because they are playing in the same field with Bobby Jones. It seems almost unbelievable that such mechanically perfect players as Ben Hogan and Byron Nelson should stand in such honest awe of Jones. But they do, and to their credit.

Perhaps this gives another angle on the appeal of the Masters. The pairings are made with an eye for the dramatic. They do not pull names out of a hat. At 2 o'clock today Jones goes down the first wide fairway with Craig Wood, the defending champion and the 1941 open champion. They will carry the gallery to the exclusion of the Nelsons, the Hogans, the Picards and the Littles.

And further down, playing together, will be little Bobby Cruikshank, the "Wee Scot" whom Jones defeated in a play-off for the 1923 open crown, going around with Tommy Armour, who won in 1927.

The overwhelming favorite to win is Hogan.

A'S MOUND STAFF WORRIES MACK AS '42 OPENER NEARS

Connie Believes Outfield, Infield Can Hold Up This Season

WICHITA FALLS, Tex.—Disappointed with his pitchers, Connie Mack nevertheless believes his Philadelphia Athletics "will be all right" this season.

"I feel that I am going to have a pretty fair ball club this year, one that with good pitching will hold its own with any team in our league," the 75-year-old pilot predicted. The A's finished in last place in 1941.

The pitchers who have weakened Connie's hopes are Dick Fowler, Fern Caligiuri and Bill Beckman. The first two showed much promise last fall. Mack pointed out, however, that he has had this spring and Beckman "has been murdered."

"The way it looks now," he said, "my starters will have to be Jack Knott, Phil Marchildon, Russ Christopher and Herman Besse. I'm going to keep Lum Harris and Rog Wolff for relief-to save games—if we are ahead."

Infield Is Pleasing
Most pleasing thing to Mack about his 1942 edition is his infield. He's satisfied with his starting selections and has faith in his reserves.

Dick Siebert at first, Bill Knickerbocker at second, Rookie Jack Wallaesa at short and Buddy Blair at third are Connie's first choices, and he has Pete Suder, a regular third baseman last year and Kenny Richardson as utility men.

"Some people may be surprised that I'm using Wallaesa, but I believe the boy needs to play to improve," Connie explained. "He needs work and experience and he has so much ability."

He feels Frankie Hayes will take good care of the catching chores. The outfield, though, has Connie worried because of Mike Kreevich's arm injury.

"If Kreevich can't play center field, I'll use Felix Mackiewicz in center and Elmer Valo in right with Bob Johnson in left field. If Kreevich plays, then Mackiewicz will be in right. Valo isn't ready to play yet but when he gets some experience, he'll be a good ball player."

SPRINGFIELD, Mo.—The Cleveland Indians today with the New York Giants today with one utility infielder—Russ Peters, who has a broken nose, Oscar Grimes, veteran utility man who plays all infield posts, went home to Cleveland last night with a cold and 102-degree temperature. Peters was injured several weeks ago by a thrown ball.

HUNTINGTON, W. Va.—The death of Paul Derringer's baby son, Lucien Paul, makes it unlikely that the Cincinnati Reds' ace will pitch the season opener against the Pittsburgh Pirates Tuesday. He left the team for Sarasota, Fla., yesterday.

No major changes were recorded in the Pastime league standings during the course of last night's bowling at the Grate alleys. The league leaders, Citizens Ice, kept atop their perch with a two-game win over the Strop club. Albright shutout Loudons to chop a game off the leaders' margin.

Jacksons copped three from Hunts as Bill Hull fired games of 203 and 216, Art Shinn had a 212 while Bill Jackson had a 221 for Hunts. In other matches the Gold Bar took three on a forfeit from the Eagles, the Salem Label disposed of Pennys the same way, and Bloombergs took two from Sponserers, climbing ahead of Hunts in the standings.

The Ohio Edison kept their margin of safety in the Masonic Ladies league standings as they took a pair from the Salem News Keglers on the temple drives. Kresges closed in on the News in their drive for second place as they shut out Brownies. But two games separates these two teams in the standings.

In other matches the Bankerettes copped two from Starks and Warkes took a like number from Mullins.

'WITH REGARDS' IS JOCKEY'S CHOICE TO CAPTURE DERBY

English Rider Given Good Chance To Cop Annual Classic

BY SID FEDER
NEW YORK.—Little Johnny Longden wouldn't be at all surprised if the understatement of the year turns out to be the name of T. D. Grimes' Kentucky Derby horse, With Regards.

The little Englishman means that after May 2 down there at Churchill Downs a lot of people are going to be convinced the colt's tag should at least have been "With Best Regards."

This is because the whiz from Wakefield feels that the high-standing son of Jack High, who already has the Arkansas Derby to his credit this year in the string of six straight successes he began last July, has a somewhat better than bad chance of ringing the cash register on that 60,000 jackpot.

And Johnny should know. He piloted the rapid-winning bargain baby—Grimes picked up With Regards for less than $1,000—in eight of his nine trips to the post.

Johnny is such a tiny guy that when he ducks his head he's virtually invisible. He came to New York from Oaklawn Derby to take in the racing which starts Thursday. With Regards, meanwhile, is at Louisville for a brief vacation.

While he's here Johnny will be thinking of the Blue Grass state a lot because he thinks With Regards is the best chance he's ever had to win the Derby.

"And he might, too," Johnny insists. He's a tall fellow, and when you're on him, you hardly know he's running. He's that smooth. But he can go real nice."

"Regards" Smashes Record
This is hardly telling the whole story, for you With Regards smashed the Oaklawn track record to bits when he won the derby there in 1930 for a mile and an eighth. Of this, trainer-owner Grimes says: "That's really traveling in any league."

The colt reminds Johnny a lot of Snark, a picture galloper who campaigned around here about a half dozen years ago. Snark was one of the fastest things seen in these parts in years.

With Regards showed no signs of dropping for gas in the Oaklawn Derby's mile and an eighth, and Grimes doesn't see why the extra length of the Kentucky classic should change things.

If he can do it down at the Downs when the blue chips are up, it will be a real nice thing for little Johnny. Longden's been riding for some time now. In 1933, he was the top jockey in the business. But the best he's ever done in the Derby was when Melodist tired and finished fourth in '37. At 32, Johnny can't have many more derbies left to ride, so if he can do it, this time—why one and all should be glad to say, With Best Regards.

SPORT CHATTER

BY HUGH FULLERTON, JR.
NEW YORK, April 9.—The horses start running today at Jamaica and Keeneland. New England opens its season Saturday, the day after Florida closes.

Wonder when the fans are supposed to find time to refill their pocketbooks? ... It's our idea that all sports seasons run too long. There would be more fun and just as many customers if they'd start later and end earlier so the fans could get a breathing spell and get steamed up about each new sport as its season came along.

Another suggestion: If Leon Rains' peace conference between the army and the A. A. U. doesn't smooth things out today, why not have an arrangement whereby the armed forces could "certify" athletes as being okay the way colleges do?

Today's Guest Star
Jim Reed, Topeka, (Kas.) Daily Capital: "Kansas farmers report beef prices the highest since 1928 and it wouldn't be surprising to see a new record set this fall for the price of football 'beef'."

Sportpourri
After the Augusta Masters golf tourney, Craig Wood, the national open champion, and Ben Hogan, the top money winner, will play a series of matches for the "unofficial world championship" and a wad of cash for war relief. ... Looks as if Hogan had better win the Masters. ... Also may race in Toronto during the Woodbine park meeting in May if a date can be arranged that won't conflict with any of his stakes engagements.

Whitely Fuller, Dartmouth drum beater now pounding the tom toms for the Navy air corps, will be dined tonight by the Indian coaches he has been praising all these years. ... Headline in N. Y. paper: "No time for lunch for race fans." ... and no dough for dinner.

Bits of Sport

ENID, Okla.—The Pittsburgh Pirates will field one of the youngest teams in the majors when the baseball firing begins in earnest next week. Exclusive of batterymen, the Pirates' opening day lineup will average 25 years per man. The Bats and the Philadelphia Athletics resume their training series here today after being kept idle by weather the past two days.

Charleston, W. Va.—After being forced to pass up a $2,500 advance sale in Lexington, Ky., because of weather, the Boston Red Sox and the Cincinnati Reds came here today to wind up their fifth consecutive northward series. Manager Joe Cronin of the Red Sox picked Joe Dobson to pitch for the Red Sox who have dropped six of the 11 games.

ST. LOUIS CHOSEN TO COP N. L. RACE BY SPORTS SCRIBES

"Dem Bums" Given Second Slot While Cincy Rates No. 3

(By Associated Press)
NEW YORK, April 9.—By a 2 to 1 margin, the experts today picked the St. Louis Cardinals to overthrow Brooklyn's Dodgers and win the 1942 National league pennant. In a surprisingly one-sided vote, 46 of the 74 baseball writers balloting in the annual Associated Press pennant poll tabbed the Cards to finish on top. One other writer, Jim Gould of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, couldn't make up his mind between the Cards and Cincinnati Reds, and split his ballot.

Only 23 picked the Dodgers to repeat their 1941 triumph in the senior circuit. Four forecast a return of the Reds to the top spot they held in 1939 and '40. No one could see the Cards worse than third, while four writers picked Brooklyn as low as fourth.

Those were the only three clubs drawing ballots for first place and the voting wound up in that order, with St. Louis piling up 563½ points on a basis of 6 for a first-place vote, 7 for a second, 6 for a third, etc. Brooklyn had 515 and Cincinnati 434½.

The Pittsburgh Pirates, who brought up the rear of the first division in last year's pennant parade, were tabbed to do that again this time. Frank Frisch's boys were selected on three second-place ballots, 21 third and 32 fourth and compiled 375 points.

The second division voting wound up with New York, Chicago, Boston and (you guessed it) Philadelphia's Phillies in that order. There was quite a scramble for fifth place, with the Giants, under Mel Ott's brand new management, winning out, 290 to 244.

Naturally, there was no argument.

Oddities, Facts, Figures On 42nd Annual ABC Event Cited By AP Sports Scribe

BY FRITZ HOWELL
COLUMBUS, April 9.—Headpin splinters picked up as the 42nd annual American Bowling Congress hit the halfway mark!

Attendance for the 73-day classic is expected to reach 100,000, but Eli Whitney, the efficient prize agent for the A. B. C., predicts Buffalo and Los Angeles will double that "gate" the next two years—war or no war.

Bill Sheehan, state fairgrounds parking lot employee, was drafted last week, but is still at the local induction center. Hell stay there, too, until the army finds a pair of size 14 shoes for him.

The press box boys tossed a party last week for Gene Wilburn, sports writer from Columbus. Detroit and other points. The party started at 1:30 a. m., after the third shift of teams had finished for the night. Wilburn was to report at Fort Hayes at 7:30 a. m., and the party lasted until then. He's been gone a week, but his hat and topcoat are still hanging in the press box.

SYNOPSIS
A Fifth Column blitzkrieg is under way in England led by a mysterious Ajax who officially and secretly is considered more menacing than Stuka bombers to the defense of the realm. The confessed treason of Mara, an English spy, followed by the sensational murder of Capt. Hugh Kenley, have put Sir John Sanderson, British Intelligence chief, in a desperate quandary. Sir John's ward, beautiful Brinda Duncan, had given a lift in her car to a limping stranger whom she mistook for an Englishman. But he was a Nazi parachutist and when leaving Brinda's car, he shot Capt. Kenley. Brinda meets Lieut. Richard Malden, a former beau, when both are looking through photos in the Intelligence Office's "rogues' gallery." He has just told her that his engagement to Gladys, daughter of Lord and Lady Mountwyn, is to be announced that evening. Brinda had none too pleasant memories of glittering Gladys as a schoolmate. But Sir John and his ward go to the Mountwyn party, where Gladys is proudly showing off the rapier-like Russian, Prince Vaslav, described by Dick as "a sort of society entertainer." During a Vaslav-directed "blackout dance," a low cry is heard but by few. Lord Mountwyn tells Dick, "Colonel Sanderson has been stabbed!"

CHAPTER NINE
Ignoring Dick's restraining gesture, Brinda swept swiftly forward. At the sight of a dark stain on Sir John's shirt-bosom she was near crying out.
She knelt beside the prostrate figure of the Intelligence Chief. "Sandy, Sandy!" Her fingers searched the flaccid wrist. Having viewed sudden and violent death so recently, it was hard for her to believe the reassuring news conveyed by the strongly beating pulse.
"Sandy, dear," she pleaded. "Oh, please!" Some whisper of her fervent appeal reached the flagging consciousness of the wounded man. A faint smile twitched a corner of the stern, tired mouth.
"Look sharp, Mountwyn," he mumbled weakly, "he's after the cipher!"

Brinda scarcely heard the words—it was enough that he had spoken. People were beginning to gather around.

"Can't have this," barked Mountwyn. "Dick! Keep everyone away.... Tell 'em Sir John had a stroke.... Anything.... Understand?"

"Perfectly."

"But Lord Mountwyn," protested Brinda, "I don't understand—How did this happen?"

"No time to go into that now.... other things to worry about—plenty of 'em. For one thing, we mustn't let that fellow give us the slip.... Have to lock the lodge gates.... search the grounds. Dick! your Navy chums can help on that. Tell 'em to look sharp, though; we don't want anyone else hurt."

Mountwyn turned back to Brinda. "Buck up, child! Your guardian is hurt, but he isn't dead. Know any first aid?"

"A little."

"Splendid!" Mountwyn whipped out a handkerchief. "Make a tourniquet of this. Twist it round his arm—tight. That's the stuff. Now for his chest.... Hmm.... wicked but not so deep. Call a doctor."

"That's been done," Brinda answered promptly with her eyes on Sir John. "Dr. MacDonald will soon be here."

"Good! We'll have him in. Meantime, we'll have to get our man to bed.... Carry him across the terrace into the west wing.... Won't have to do a lot of explaining that way."

So swiftly that it seemed scarcely to have consumed a moment, Brinda found herself hastening across the outer terrace—one of a small perched cottage that included Mountwyn, Dick, a hastily summoned footman in resplendent livery, and the wounded Intelligence Chief.

Dick and the footman supported Sir John; Lord Mountwyn bustled ahead.
High in the starless autumn night an invisible plane droned menacingly. The distant hum of its motor mingled with a burst of music from the drawing room as Lord Mountwyn's guests, ignorant of the drama in their midst, resumed their dancing.

Brinda shivered. There seemed something symbolic about that hidden airplane. True it might be British.... But the papers were already telling every day of enemy planes winging audaciously above England on observation missions, or daring to attack the mighty British Fleet as it lay at anchorage. Few bombs had dropped from them yet, fewer than expected, but cargoes more deadly than bombs—spies and Fifth Columnists descending silently by parachute—were said to be preparing the way for deadlier things to come.

And, meanwhile, Britain made merry and danced—as Lord Mountwyn's guests were dancing tonight—as she herself had been dancing just a few minutes before.

"In here!" Mountwyn opened the door to a magnificently furnished bedroom. Gently, with no apparent effort Dick lay Sir John's one hundred and eighty pounds on the massive bed.

As his head touched the pillow, the Intelligence Chief opened his eyes. For a moment they were vague and puzzled. But suddenly they comprehended all. He attempted to sit up, then sank back with an involuntary exclamation of pain.

"Ah!" he said angrily. "The blighter knifed me." Then quickly to Mountwyn, "Don't tell me he got away with the—?"

Afraid so," said Mountwyn. "But take it easy, Sir John. He can't have escaped."

Sir John groaned slightly. "Worse and worse," he sighed.

"We'll nab him," said Mountwyn confidently. "Nobody can get by the lodge gates—they've been locked. It's a twelvefoot wall and only last month I had two strands of American barbed wire strung around it."

"Perfectly."

"But Lord Mountwyn," protested Brinda, "I don't understand—How did this happen?"

"No time to go into that now.... other things to worry about—plenty of 'em. For one thing, we mustn't let that fellow give us the slip.... Have to lock the lodge gates.... search the grounds. Dick! your Navy chums can help on that. Tell 'em to look sharp, though; we don't want anyone else hurt."

Mountwyn turned back to Brinda. "Buck up, child! Your guardian is hurt, but he isn't dead. Know any first aid?"

"A little."

"Splendid!" Mountwyn whipped out a handkerchief. "Make a tourniquet of this. Twist it round his arm—tight. That's the stuff. Now for his chest.... Hmm.... wicked but not so deep. Call a doctor."

"That's been done," Brinda answered promptly with her eyes on Sir John. "Dr. MacDonald will soon be here."

"Good! We'll have him in. Meantime, we'll have to get our man to bed.... Carry him across the terrace into the west wing.... Won't have to do a lot of explaining that way."

So swiftly that it seemed scarcely to have consumed a moment, Brinda found herself hastening across the along the top. Besides, it's well-lighted and the lights are on the lodge-gate circuit. Only the lodge-keeper can put them out, and he didn't.... No, whoever he is—he's still on the premises."

"Then we'll have to catch him," grieved Sanderson. "If I could only get up—do something!" He made another effort, only to fall back again.

Brinda placed a restraining hand on his forehead. "You mustn't, Sandy!" she admonished. "Just lie quiet; Doctor MacDonald will be here soon."

"Good!" said Sir John. "Best not to bring too many people in on this. Still.... I suppose it's public property by now?"

"Not a bit of it," said Mountwyn. "Fortunately, we've been able to handle it quietly. But do you think we can wait—I mean do you feel up to it?"

"Of course. What are a couple of knife scratches to an old army man? The thing I can't understand is why I was knocked out so completely.... Wait! The whole thing's coming back. Mountwyn. You were handing me the—er, the article—when the lights went out. Then you said 'Hang on to it!' and I knew you thought that I must have taken it from you. Then this fellow bumped into me and I grappled with him. He was pretty strong and he tripped me at the same time he used the knife. My head hit something going down and I passed out."

As his head touched the pillow, the Intelligence Chief opened his eyes. For a moment they were vague and puzzled. But suddenly they comprehended all. He attempted to sit up, then sank back with an involuntary exclamation of pain.

"Ah!" he said angrily. "The blighter knifed me." Then quickly to Mountwyn, "Don't tell me he got away with the—?"

Afraid so," said Mountwyn. "But take it easy, Sir John. He can't have escaped."

Sir John groaned slightly. "Worse and worse," he sighed.

"We'll nab him," said Mountwyn confidently. "Nobody can get by the lodge gates—they've been locked. It's a twelvefoot wall and only last month I had two strands of American barbed wire strung around it."

"Perfectly."

"But Lord Mountwyn," protested Brinda, "I don't understand—How did this happen?"

"No time to go into that now.... other things to worry about—plenty of 'em. For one thing, we mustn't let that fellow give us the slip.... Have to lock the lodge gates.... search the grounds. Dick! your Navy chums can help on that. Tell 'em to look sharp, though; we don't want anyone else hurt."

Mountwyn turned back to Brinda. "Buck up, child! Your guardian is hurt, but he isn't dead. Know any first aid?"

"A little."

"Splendid!" Mountwyn whipped out a handkerchief. "Make a tourniquet of this. Twist it round his arm—tight. That's the stuff. Now for his chest.... Hmm.... wicked but not so deep. Call a doctor."

"That's been done," Brinda answered promptly with her eyes on Sir John. "Dr. MacDonald will soon be here."

"Good! We'll have him in. Meantime, we'll have to get our man to bed.... Carry him across the terrace into the west wing.... Won't have to do a lot of explaining that way."

So swiftly that it seemed scarcely to have consumed a moment, Brinda found herself hastening across the

"Good thing you did," said Mountwyn, "or he'd probably have finished you."

"Little harm, if he had!" Sir John's tone was bitter. "My successor might manage things better."

Sir John's eyes closed, his voice died. He shook his head weakly and tried to continue but Brinda silenced him with soft fingers on his lips.

"Not another word!" she ordered. Eyes blazing, she turned on Mountwyn. "Please let him alone! Can't you see he's too weak to talk?"

Sir John stirred restlessly. "Brinda!" he called.

"Not now," she soothed. "You're to rest, Sandy."

"No," said her guardian hoarsely. "Now! Bend over and listen."

Then, in her ear, almost whispering: "You are in grave danger. Brinda girl. Be careful—what you say and do—especially while you're in this house. Do you understand?"

"Yes, Sandy, yes."

"Remember," Sanderson repeated. "Careful!" He closed his eyes again, exhausted with the effort of speech.

PROVIDENCE, R. I.—This strategic Atlantic coastal state is taking no chances with possible touring enemy spies. The State Public Works Department is distributing highway maps "with discretion," they say, and only after making certain who is going to use them and for what purpose.

ROCHESTER, N. H.—Blind Chester Downs is this city's most successful airplane spotter. Downs, who says his acute hearing enables him to sense an approaching plane before unimpaired watchers, works with a companion, who identifies the craft.

FOR DEFENSE

STRANDED PILOT SAVED BY CRUCIFIX

Somewhere in North Australia, April 9.—Clarence Sanford, an Alabama university graduate, from Auburn, N. Y., reported today how his life was saved by a silver crucifix he habitually wears around his neck.

Chasing Japanese planes over the Pacific, Sanford's fighter plane ran out of fuel and he had to bail out, drifting into the water three miles from a small island.

He had to strip off all his clothing in order to swim to shore, where he collapsed.

He was aroused by three aborigines, one of whom held a spear to his chest and accused, "you Jap."

Sanford said he was about to be impaled when the native spied the crucifix and exclaimed, "Jesus No. one man!"

The friendly natives led the nude flier 25 miles afoot to the Bremer island mission, and a pearl lugger brought him back to Australia.

SAN JOSE, Cal.—Superior Judge John D. Foley presented Miss Nieves Serra, 18, with a birthday. It is July 28. As a baby, she was found deserted. Jose and Concepcion Serra took her in and since then have given her everything except a birthday. All concerned decided July 28 would do nicely, and the judge made it legal.

RELEASE FLOW OF LIVER BILE

To be normal your liver should produce about a full quart of digestion-aiding juices every day. A scanty flow—a slowing up, may mean Sick Headaches, so-called Biliousness, Poor Digestion with that half-sick, sour feeling.

Snap out of it—you can, with a gentle excitant. Get a bottle of Kruschen Salts tonight; start right in tomorrow morning and take half a teaspoonful in a glass of water (hot or cold) half an hour before breakfast, and keep it up for 30 days. Now you'll know what it is to get up feeling fit and ready for a real day's work. Try Kruschen—a famous English formula—see what it means to you when Bile Flows freely. Satisfaction guaranteed or money back.
